

LL.M.

IN INTERNATIONAL LEGAL STUDIES

universität
wien

The post-graduate LL.M. degree course in International Legal Studies at the University of Vienna/Law School is a one year full-time or a two year part-time program which aims at deepening the knowledge and skills that are of importance for the practice of international law, in international organizations, governmental agencies, as well as in internationally operating law firms and enterprises. The program comprises four modules focusing on different areas of international law, namely: "Fundamental Issues of International Law", "International Economic Law", "International Dispute Settlement" and "International Organizations". Inter-active teaching in weekly classes, lectures as well as seminars, are the preferred methods of instruction by an internationally renowned faculty whose expertise and practical experience are valuable assets that students will benefit from throughout their studies.

Target Group/prerequisites for practicing:

The city of Vienna which hosts a number of international organizations (IAEA, OPEC, OSCE, United Nations) offers an ideal environment for this kind of program, thereby enabling students to study in depth the structures and functioning of international organizations. A few internships are regularly made available for particularly qualified students.

Candidates with experience and holding a first law degree (eg JD, LL.B., or LL.M.) from renowned foreign or Austrian universities are eligible to apply. All applicants must submit valid TOEFL scores unless English is their native language or they earned their first law degree entirely in English. All classes will be taught in English. The number of students accepted is restricted to 25 participants. Considerable weight is given to academic results and pertinent qualifications.
